

Delegation Name: Sultanate of Oman

Ambassador Name: Elizaveta Volik

Good afternoon,

It would be rather unpleasant not to mention that delegation of the Sultanate of Oman is extremely happy and honored to be here tonight. We are willing to contribute to deliberation of solutions to the most widespread and global problems and work on successful conclusions of this conference.

The Sultanate of Oman continues a well-established policy which is based on a deep vision and a legacy drawn from Oman's cultural heritage, history, and experience. In fact, it affirms the fundamentals of our foreign policy which are based on four main principles: the development and maintenance of good relations with our neighboring countries, international outlook in keeping our geographic location, a pragmatic approach to bipartite relation targeting geostrategic realities rather than temporary in ideological position and, commitment to search for security and stability through cooperation and peace.

These principles have been consistently applied and have both proved to be valuable and durable. Oman's adherence to them has allowed our foreign policy to become flexible and being able to confidently meet the challenges of new international environment.

Our country supports and promotes the idea that establishing and maintaining peace in the world would meet the interests of all people, and to achieve that we need to follow the principles of justice and solid foundations of cooperations and harmony among all the nations. This brings us to the theme of this year's conference which is "Securing Post-conflict Peace."

My country also looks forward to contributing to Climate Change actions. We realize that our world is now in a demanding situation due to the diverse weather effects which are seriously threatening the food security of many countries all over the world. Adapting to and mitigating those conditions would not be easy but by commitment acceptance and engagement to today's most widespread problem we are empowering our capabilities in lowering the consequences. In this regard, it is worth mentioning that Sultanate of Oman has developed a national strategic plan for protecting the environment and confronting Climate Change.

In addition, Sultanate of Oman follows the fundamentals of equality, justice, and non-discrimination among the society. Alongside men Omani women contribute to diverse spheres including political, cultural, economic, and social and develop our community. Referring to this, we are proud of archived results in equality and advancement of women in our community. Supporting the youth generation in Sultanate of Oman has also become an achievement for our brighter and stronger future. In that respect, our country has provided opportunities that are fair and equal for all.

The problems we are going to refer to in the next sessions, we believe, are now becoming a heavy inheritance for our future generations and, therefore, we should all start the commitment to the right decisions.

In conclusion, we would like to state a wish for every future session to meet our expectations and hopes and achieve peak efficiency for our world to become a better place to live in.

Thank you, Honorable Chair and Sincere Delegates, and peace be upon you all!
