

Delegation Name: Algeria

Ambassador Name: Abdulkareem Hawash

Madam President, Secretaries general, Beloved Delegates,

It gives me a great honor to participate for the second time in a conference that's internationally recognized for its positive influence on its participants. I am also thrilled that this time the conference is held face to face rather than virtually which will definitely give me the opportunity to see how it actually works.

Algeria has always showed United Nations cooperation throughout the sixty years of joining it, and now especially due to the conflict that's taking place in The Western Sahara. Hopefully, Algeria will continue to stay away from the conflict and will support resolutions that aspire to solve problems and maximize world peace, thankfully stating that Algeria was and will always stay away from any type of hostilities and clashes, Algeria contributes to this year's theme because it's not only about bringing world peace but also maintaining it, however, there is no doubt that securing post conflict peace can be difficult to achieve, but stating that it's even harder to maintain, therefore, as delegates and students who want to voice out their concerns and make change in the course of future events, Take it from me delegates, we are in the right place to reach our aims. The ambassador of Algeria will make sure that Algeria resolves conflicts peacefully and tries to provide the best solutions with the least possible costs, Algeria, the country of a million martyrs, would be sinking in sorrow if it lost any more of its innocent civilians or resources that it could benefit from due to any kind of conflict or problem that can be solved in a civilized way.

The ambassador of Algeria will always aim to gain the best of everything, and by the end of this conference, the ambassador thinks that the best thing that can be taken from this extraordinary experience is at least to move one step towards making real change and improving global wellbeing.