

Delegation Name: Costa Rica

Ambassador Name: Lara Erkiralp

Honorable chairs, distinguished delegates,

We as The Delegation of Costa Rica feel greatly honored to address the guiding theme of “Navigating Uncertainty Through Mutual Trust” at this assembly we’ve all gathered at today.

We as a delegation recognize the harsh challenges faced in both the Sahel Region and Southern Africa as we debate and tackle these environmental issues in the Environmental Committee (GA4). In the meantime in the Historical Security Council, Costa Rica aims to encourage diplomatic engagement and regional cooperation as we examine the Second Congo War, the Badme War, and the Angolan Civil War.

We as a delegation believe that trust is not a vision to achieve, but is a necessity to acquire and as a delegation we aim to to reinforce those bonds of trust and to work collectively toward solutions that are just, sustainable, and grounded in international law.

We aspire to promote global cooperation centered on sustainable land restoration, climate adaptation, and community resilience on the topic of Mitigating Land Degradation and Desertification in the Sahel Region, and hope to advance discussions on enhanced preparedness, early warning systems, and fair access to post-disaster recovery assistance in addressing urban air and water pollution in African megacities.

While doing so the Republic of Costa Rica’s stance in the Historical Security Council will be followed and guided by our unwavering commitment to peace and international law, as we examine the Second Congo War, the Badme War, and the Angolan Civil War.

By the end of this conference, Costa Rica hopes to achieve three central goals:

1. To encourage trust and cooperation among member states,
2. To offer input to practical, sustainable, peaceful, and people-centered solutions to the challenges faced across all committees,
3. To preserve the values of peace, environmental responsibility, and humanitarian protection that define our national identity.

To conclude our speech we would like to once again bring to your attention that as delegates it is our responsibility to shape a more peaceful, just and sustainable world, and The Republic of Costa Rica stands ready to collaborate with every nation here in the spirit of respect, transparency, and mutual trust.

Thank you for your interest,

We yield the floor to the chair.