

Delegation Name: Russia

Ambassador Name: Selin Balik

Honorable chairs, distinguished delegates, and most esteemed guests,

The Russian Federation is honored to address this assembly under the theme of “Navigating Uncertainty Through Mutual Trust.” Living in an era marked by geopolitical and economic fragility with security threats constantly rising, trust has become not just a diplomatic goal, it has become the foundation upon which agreements become durable and peace becomes attainable. This year’s focus on Africa offers us an important chance to observe how uncertainty and resilience can coexist. Africa’s nations have demonstrated resilience despite the environmental, political and economic unpredictability.

Across the various committees of this conference, the Russian Federation plans to make constructive contributions to the discussions and work toward actual progress. Russia emphasizes the importance of supporting African-led solutions to conflict management that is based on respect for national sovereignty in matters of peace and security. Russia plans to support frameworks that uphold institutional validity while acknowledging the distinctive aspects of each nation in legal and humanitarian discussions, whether in increasing the independence of judiciary in African countries or in combating gender-based violence in conflict and post-conflict regions. In environmental and developmental committees, as the delegation of the Russian Federation, our goal is to give the principle of fair resource access top priority so that African states can pursue sustainable growth without sacrificing their economic requirements. We wish to promote greater cooperation in social and economic areas where mutual trust can result in prosperity for all.

By the end of this conference, the Russian Federation hopes to improve multilateral communication, encourage realistic and balanced policy recommendations, and shape resolutions that uphold the values of long term stability, cooperation and sovereignty. Above all, we want to create an environment where we recognize that differences do not have to be obstacles to understanding. Trust helps us to navigate these challenges without losing sight of our shared objectives, like a compass in uncertain times. The Russian Federation is ready to work with everyone in the spirit of partnership, respect and constructive diplomacy. Let us use this conference to reinforce the trust that unites the international community and guides us toward a more stable future.

Thank you.
